Right Intention
The Pillar of Ethical Conduct
Right Speech
Right Action
Right Living

Living ethically is a foundation of Buddhism. It is part and parcel of training the mind and freeing ourselves from suffering. The Buddha teaches us to examine constantly whether or not what we think, do, and say causes harm to ourselves and others. By avoiding actions that cause harm, we can make serious headway toward waking up.

~~Buddhist Ethics — The Wisdom Experience~~

Buddhism compares an ideal human life to a tree. Ethics is the root that gives secure grounding to the human life. Mental discipline is the trunk that symbolises its inner strength, single-pointed stability, and decisiveness. Wisdom is the sturdy branch from which flowers ethical perfection, cognitive awakening and final liberation.
